Dear Members of the Istinye Family,

After the earthquake that affected 11 provinces and all of us on February 6, distance education started to be given in universities. While our students are following their lessons away from the classrooms, we continue our work without slowing down so that you can spend this term comfortably and productively while on duty.

There have been changes in the on-site service hours of our libraries. Working hours of Topkapı and Vadi Libraries have changed to 08.00 - 05.30 on weekdays. Topkapı Silent Area continues to serve 24/7. Again, we extended the return dates of the books you borrowed until the end of April.

Thanks to the remote access system, you can access all our electronic resources 24/7 and continue your research without interruption. You can get more information about our electronic resources from the ISU Library website. If you wish, you can request online training on the use of resources.

We celebrate the last week of March every year as Library Week. During the Library Week, which will be celebrated for the 59th time this year with the earthquake we experienced on the main theme of the 100th Anniversary of our Republic, attention has once again turned to issues such as libraries in disasters, the security of resources and information, and employee safety. We continue to work for safer libraries and tomorrow.

We would like to invite you to support the Toy and Book Support Campaign organized in cooperation with the Turkish Librarians Association, School Librarians Association and Rami Library. Let's not forget #SolidarityMakesUsLive. You can find details about the campaign later in the bulletin.

In the 12th volume of the ISU Library Bulletin, we have included many topics that we believe will be of interest to you. I hope you enjoy reading our news, the librarian's recommendations, and more.

On the 108th Anniversary of the 18 March Çanakkale Victory, which is unique in world history, I commemorate with respect, gratitude and gratitude all our martyrs who sacrificed their lives for the country, especially the great leader Mustafa Kemal Atatürk, and his comrades in arms.

I wish everyone good health and good days.

Kind regards,

Bahar Biçen Aras
Head of Information Resources and Library Department

DIGITAL KUTUPIST PROJECT

Beyza Nur Ataer from Fatih Sultan Mehmet Foundation University Library shared her experiences with us as part of the Digitalkutupist Project. We thank Fatih Sultan Mehmet Vakıf University Library Department Head Asude Tavus and Fatih Sultan Mehmet Vakıf University Library for their support and cooperation.

For updates and innovations, work continued in #ISULibrary in February.

WORLD CANCER DAY

Cancer is the second leading cause of death both in the world and in our country. When we look at the causes of death, it is seen that approximately one out of every 6 deaths in the world and one out of every 5 deaths in our country is due to cancer.

The World Cancer Day events, which were first organized by the International Organization for Cancer Control (UICC), with which our country is in close cooperation, in 2005, became traditional with the campaigns carried out at the global level with UICC and its cooperating organizations on February 4 of each year in the following years.

In our country, within the scope of the National Cancer Control Program, which combines registration, prevention, screening and treatment studies since 2008 in line with WHO recommendations; Screening programs are carried out for breast, colon and cervical cancers in accordance with the resources and disease burden of the society.

OPENCOURSEWARE

The screenshot displays the ISÜ Library website. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links for 'ISTINYE.EDU.TR', 'MY ACCOUNT', and 'OFF-CAMPUS ACCESS'. Below this, the ISÜ logo and 'İSTİNYE ÜNİVERSİTESİ' are visible. The main navigation menu includes 'ABOUT US', 'OUR SERVICES', 'CATALOGUES', 'DATABASES', and 'CONTACT'. The 'LIBRARY' section is highlighted, and a search bar is present with a 'Keyword...' input field. A dropdown menu is open, listing various database options: 'Subscriber Database', 'Ekual Database', 'E-book Collections', 'Trial Database', 'OpenCourseWare', 'Open Access Database', 'Plagiarism Check', 'Mendeley', and 'Academic Archive'. A dashed white arrow points to the 'OpenCourseWare' option. Below the search bar, there is a 'WORKING HOURS' section with four library locations and their respective hours. To the right, there is a 'Tüm Duyurular' (All Announcements) section with several news items dated in February.

Open Courses are courses with free and open educational resources for faculty, students and self-learners all over the world.

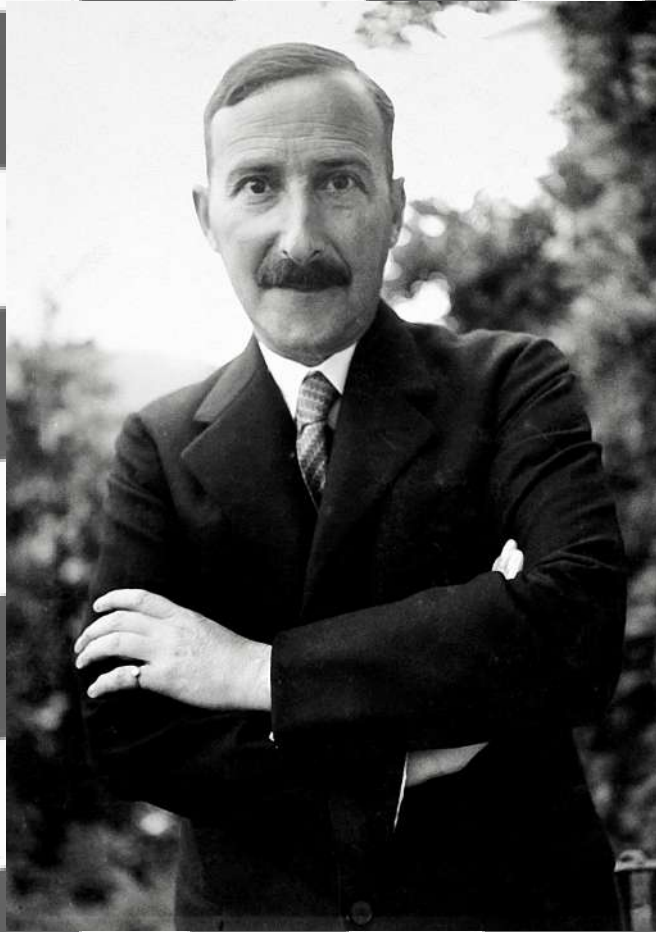

The “OpenCourseWare” page, which is open to free access as teaching, learning and research materials published under an open license in the digital environment, has been added to the Library homepage.

AUTHOR OF THE MONTH

STEFAN ZWEIG

(NOVEMBER 28, 1881 - FEBRUARY 23, 1942)

Born in Vienna, Austria in 1881, Stefan Zweig is a playwright, novelist, journalist and biographer. Stefan, whose father is a wealthy industrialist, has been well-educated in literature and culture from an early age and speaks Latin, French, English and Greek fluently.

He wrote his first poems in high school. He worked as an archive officer at the war headquarters in Vienna voluntarily during World War I, returned to Austria after the war ended, settled in Salzburg and married Frederike Von Winternit.

He stayed here for about 20 years, and the years he spent were the most productive. He made good friendships with people. During his last years in Salzburg, Stefan Zweig put his weight on the intellectual unity of Europe and constantly warned against extremism with a number of conferences and articles. Known for being very productive, Zweig wrote lyric poems, experimented with stage works in the genre of tragedy and biography.

"The person who has once found himself has nothing to lose on this earth anymore. And he understands all people who have once understood the man in himself."

FAHRENHEIT 451

How about meeting a dark future in a post-apocalyptic universe and exceeding the dystopian limits of your imagination? Then get ready to meet the dystopian and science fiction novel "Fahrenheit 451" written by master writer Ray Bradbury, who won the admiration of his readers with the fictions he created! The unique novel of Bradbury, whose name inspired writers such as Stephen King and Neil Gaiman, one of today's masters of science fiction, is considered one of the four main dystopian works of English literature, and is a masterpiece that appeals to all age groups. Come, with its immersive narration, you will not realize when you have reached the end of the work.

"Maybe the books can get us out of the cave a little bit. Maybe they can keep us from making the same damn crazy mistakes!"
